The sentences or words in red and in brackets are stage directions and how the people talk.

(A car pulls over at the Adhikaris' house, it is Mrs Carole Henry and her seventeen-year-old daughter Tricia)

Narrator: Arigauravi has just finished his online lesson; After practising for his English exam, The four children - Indian-Nigerian-British 16-year-old Arigauravi and 18-year-old Arimadura Adhikari and Caucasian-Australian 18-year-old Flora and 19-year-old Taylor were watching a Nickelodeon Broadcast on Now TV when they had visitors. They were to guess who had come in their car.

Mr Carter: Guess who has come.

Taylor: It is my former stepfather Mr Robert Carter Jr.

Mr Carter: I'm right here, you bi***.

Flora: Nope, it is my former teacher Mrs Gotz, she has a strong Polish accent, and she helped me a lot in Year 3. Not to mention, the other children in my class.

Arimadura: You are both wrong Taylor and Flora, it is my skinny teacher Mrs Spears, I like her long, blonde hair in a bun and the orange long-sleeved dress and tights she wore today.

Arigauravi: Nope, it is Mrs Chester, my dyslexic and disabled teaching assistant who was born with a right arm that ends slightly below the elbow.

Narrator: The children were incorrect, Mrs Carole Henry and her seven-year-old naughty daughter Tricia had come to take all five children to Tesco in Ashby-De-La-Zouch to buy the things they needed for Flora's 19th birthday the following day and their house in Ilkeston to collect the cake Carole made for Flora's party at the church.

(Rochelle looks out of the window)

Rochelle: Just to let you know, you are all wrong, they were all good guesses though. The people who have come is Carole and her daughter Tricia in my husband's class.

(Carole and Tricia get out of their car and walk up the stairs to the front door, Tricia knocks the door)

Mum: I wonder who is at the door. (She leaves the book she is reading, goes to the front door, and opens it with a key)

Mum: Good evening, who are you?

Carole: Carole Henry and this is my daughter Tricia.

Mum: Carole and Tricia, good evening.

Tricia: Good evening, Mrs Adhikari. We are fine thank you.

(Dad goes into the sitting room)

Narrator: Dad went into the sitting room to tell the children that they had visitors.

Dad: Children, you have a couple of Caucasian visitors. Arigauravi, how was your online lesson?

Arigauravi: It was good.

(The children walk up to Carole and Tricia)

Arimadura (kneels): Good evening, Tricia, and Carole.

Tricia: Good evening, Ari. How are you today?

Arimadura: I am fine, I like your purple hair. Did Mummy dye it for you?

Carole: I dyed my daughters' hairs purple for tomorrow's Freaky hair Friday that took two hours to do, and I must dye them blonde again after tomorrow.

Narrator: A minute after Carole and Tricia came into the house, Mr Carter asked why they had come to the maisonette.

Mr Carter: For what have you come to the maisonette?

Carole: I wanted to take the children to Tesco Extra in Ashby-De-La-Zouch to buy things for Flora's birthday party at the Adhikari's house but AFTER Arigaauravi has finished his English exams. And then we will go to my house to collect Flora's cake for her birthday party at church.

Narrator: When Carole told Mr Carter why she and Tricia had come to the house, she asked all four children to go to their bedroom and put on their coats and shoes and go to the front door. Taylor wore a navy-blue coat and blue trainers, Flora wore a mustard winter coat and blue loafers, Arimadura wore a purple coat with hood and pink trainers and Arigaauravi wore a black leather jacket and tank brown trainers.

(When the children have put on their coats, they go to the front door and follow each other to the Henry-Jacksons' car – a silver Vauxhall Zafira 2017 with seven grey seats)

Narrator: Outside, where it was chilly and dark and the leaves had just fallen from the oak trees and the evergreen trees were dressed in green, Carole told the children where to sit. Tricia sat on the passenger's seat, she told Arigaauravi to stay at the back on the left, she told Taylor to sit on the left of the middle row, she told Flora to sit in the middle and she told Arimadura to sit on the right on the middle row.

(The children sit where they are told, and Carole sits on the driver's seat next to Tricia)

Carole: Are you ready to go to Tesco?

All five children (faintly): (Yes.)

Carole: That was appalling. I said are you ready to go to Tesco?!

All five children (louder): Yes!

Carole: That was still appalling. ARE YOU READY TO GO TO TESCO?!

All five children (loudest): YES!

Carole: Then let the journey begin.

(She starts the engine with her keys and takes the plane-style parking brake off with her hand, she also sets her sat-nav to Tesco Extra, Ashby-De-La-Zouch)

Narrator: During the journey from the house to Tesco, the children were well behaved in the car, Carole put Capital FM on DAB (referred as Capital East Midlands (Derbyshire)) on for them to listen to, so they would not get bored.

(When the sextet arrives at Tesco Extra at Ashby-De-La-Zouch, Carole puts the brake on, and she and Tricia come out of the car and let the Adhikari and Perry-Carter children come out and they proceed inside the supermarket)

Narrator: At Tesco, Carole told the two girls and two boys what to look for, for Flora's birthday celebrations. A birthday cake for all of the house to share at 7pm, birthday cards and envelopes to sign, party hats for the children to wear on their heads, snacks for the house to share with the birthday cake, numbers 1 and 9 (to make the digit 19) candle to light on the birthday cake, party plates for the children to put their snacks, a birthday badge for Flora to put on her jumper, some juice for the children to drink and some cups for the children to have their drinks. She also told them to get party bags and things to put in them.

Taylor: Yo, I found a perfect mermaid cake that has blue and pink icing. Flora will like this cake, albeit being a tomboy most of the time, she likes mermaids, and I love underwater, especially the dolphins, whales, and sharks.

Arimadura: I have found some perfect birthday cards and envelopes; I have also found some colourful party hats and numbers 1 and 9 candles. Not to mention, plastic plates and cups for food and drink. As well as a colourful badge saying, 'It's my birthday', and orange balloons of course because orange is her absolute favourite colour.

Tricia: I have found apple and orange juice. Some Quavers, some party sandwiches, some sausage rolls, some cupcakes, some scotch eggs, and some cocktail sausages.

Arigauravi: I have found some party bags, some Haribos, some popcorn and some coloured pencils for the two boys and hairbands for the two girls.

Narrator: When Taylor, Arimadura, Tricia and Arigauravi had finished choosing the things for the house party for Flora's 19th birthday, they put them in the trolley Carole was pushing and Carole paid for them.

(The children go to the checkout and Carole pays for the bought things)

Carole: Let us now go to my house, and because you have behaved well, I have two different flavours of pizza my husband ordered an hour ago at home.

Arimadura: What Pizza restaurant did your husband order the pizza from? And what two flavours did he order?

Tricia: My stepfather ordered two contrasting pizzas from Prezzo from Forman Street. He ordered a Hawaiian pizza with cheese, tomato sauce, ham and pineapple and a chicken supreme pizza there. You'll see both of them when we go to my new house in Ilkeston, where we moved back on December 17th 2023 because the house in Upper Norwood was ultra-old, we moved from our old two-bedroom flat in Upper Norwood to our new three-bedroom house in Ilkeston; we spent ages moving fully, it is extremely far from our former school, and the houses in Erewash District were expensive.

(The sextet goes back to the car in the same seats as before and Carole drives to her house in Ilkeston via South Derbyshire)

Narrator: After birthday shopping, the sextet headed to the Henry-Jacksons' house in Ilkeston to collect the birthday cake Carole made and for the children to tuck in to pizza from Prezzo.

(When they arrive, everyone goes out of the car and Northern Irish man Joseph Jackson – Carole's husband, Tricia and Florence's stepfather and Freddy and Violet's father who is listening to Capital FM on his radio, and the sextet come into the house)

Joseph: Good evening, Tricia.

Tricia: Good evening stepdaddy.

Joseph: Good evening, everyone.

Flora, Arimadura and Arigauravi: Good evening, Joseph.

Taylor: Wagwan, Joseph!

(The seven people go into the sitting room and see Florence - Tricia's younger sister, Freddy and Violet's older stepsister, Carole's younger daughter and Joseph's younger stepdaughter who is watching American Horror Story on Disney+, Freddy – Tricia and Florence's younger stepbrother, Violet's older brother, Carole's stepson and Joseph's son and Violet – Tricia and Florence's younger stepsister, Freddy's younger sister, Carole's stepdaughter and Joseph's daughter washing the plates)

Florence (pauses the video and faces her sister and the visitors): Hello Tricia. Hi bi***es.

Flora: Hello Florence.

Freddy: Waddup, bi***.

Violet: Hi.

Narrator: After meeting the rest of the Henry-Jackson family, all eight children tucked into Hawaiian, and chicken supreme pizzas Joseph ordered from Prezzo earlier and drank glasses of sparkling orange drink. And when Joseph had finished bursting colourful balloons, he and Carole had hot chocolate (they, like the Adhikari parents, Rochelle and Mr Carter nickname it 'tea') with a swirl of chocolate sauce on top in white mugs with bee and puppycat merch. Joseph's mug was white with an indigo pattern and Carole's mug was white and it had a violet pattern.

Narrator: when the children finished eating, Carole went to the kitchen and collected Flora's birthday cake for the house. It had orange buttercream icing, and it had five layers – three chocolate layers and two orange velvet layers and it was written 'Happy 19th birthday Princess Flora' albeit not being a girly-girl most of the time. It was in a white box.

(A car pulls up at the Henry-Jacksons' house, it is Rochelle and Mr Carter in their rented car) Joseph (looks out of the sitting room window): Taylor, Flora, Arimadura and Arigauravi, your parents are here to take you home.

(Taylor, Flora, Arimadura and Arigauravi put their coats and shoes back on and go to the front door, Joseph unlocks it, and the quartet go into the briefly Perry-Carters' car)

Joseph: Goodbye guys.

Arigauravi: Goodbye Uncle Joseph.

(Joseph locks the door)

Narrator: The Nigerian-Indian-British and Caucasian-Australian children proceeded into Mr Carter's courtesy car Mr Carter rented in St Matthews Way on November 1st - a white Vauxhall Vivaro with seventeen brown seats made in 2019. Mr Carter came out of the car, opened the boot, and put the shopping and Carole's homemade cake in there and closed it, then he went back into the driver's seat. Arigauravi sat at the back on the left seat, Taylor sat on the left of the middle row, Flora sat in the middle and Arimadura sat on the right of the middle row.

Rochelle and Mr Carter: Did you have an enjoyable time shopping and at the house?

Taylor: We did. We got to choose everything for Carole to purchase at Tesco, and we ate some delicious pizza at the Henry-Jacksons' house.

Narrator: During the journey from Ilkeston to Coalville via Copt Oak, Castle Donnington, Ashby-De-La-Zouch and Shepshed, everyone sat whilst listening to Capital FM on DAB (Referred to Capital UK) although it was late.

Rochelle: I am glad that you had an enjoyable time with the Henry-Jacksons but now all of you, it is time to settle down because it is your bedtime. So, no more screens or food for today, especially you, Arigauravi because you have to be well rested to do your English GCSE tomorrow at 9am.

Taylor, Flora, Arimadura and Arigauravi: We promise not to use any move devices or eat any more food today.

Mr Carter: That's the first thing we'd like to hear. If (I see) you eat any more food or use any more devices this night, Taylor, Arimadura and Arigauravi, you will not have any of Flora's birthday cakes or a party pack, let alone be part of Flora's birthday party at school and at church.

Narrator: When the sextet was at the house, everyone got out of the seven-seater car and walked to the back of the house where the front door was, Mr Carter carried the shopping and the cake to the house and Rochelle opened the door with a key, everyone went inside the house.

(The three females and three males go inside the house and Mr Carter goes to the kitchen and unpacks the shopping and puts the cake Carole made in the fridge, he puts the number 1 and 9 candles and mermaid cake in a carrier bag, along with the apple and orange juice, Quavers, party sandwiches, sausage rolls, cupcakes, scotch eggs and cocktail sausages. He puts the party bags, Haribos, popcorn, coloured pencils, and hairbands in another carrier bag) Rochelle (takes off her silver hooded coat): Children, please take off your shoes and coats and change into your pyjamas, also we are leaving the UK to go back to New Zealand on Tuesday, November 12th, 2024.

Narrator: The children went into their bedroom and took off their shoes, coats, going out clothes and vests. The boys also took off their underwear as well as their vests and put on their pyjamas. Taylor wore navy-blue long-sleeved pyjamas with white stars on them, Flora wore bee and puppycat pyjamas, Arimadura wore a pair of light rose long sleeved pyjamas with shoes all over them and a purple zip-up jumper to keep her warm with hood and Arigauravi wore long sleeved grey Simpsons pyjamas and a green knitted jumper outside to keep him warm. Then they went into the bathroom and brushed their teeth.

(After changing into their pyjamas and brushing their teeth, the four children go into the sitting room where the four adults are watching Dragonball Z on YouTube, waiting to read a bedtime story and say a nighttime prayer with them)

Rochelle (carrying a book called 'Pinkie Pie and the Rockin' Party Palooza' in hand): Let's get you four readies for bed by reading a bedtime story and saying a nighttime prayer. Flora and Taylor, I am going to give you a silver 50p coin to put in your bags for Freaky hairstyle Friday.

Narrator: Suddenly, when Rochelle was about to read tonight's bedtime story, Taylor noticed a piece of irresistible burger on the brown sofa.

Taylor (politely): Please can I have that piece of the burger? I have asked politely.

(Rochelle and Mr Carter look at each other and muse)

Rochelle and Mr Carter: Taylor Donovan Perry, even though you asked politely before you took the piece of the burger. Of course, you CANNOT have it tonight because it's extremely late.

(Taylor hangs his head and takes the piece of the burger off the armchair and puts it on his lap)

Arimadura (points at Taylor): Miss Rochelle, Taylor is trying to eat the burger, even though he was told no.

Rochelle (in a firm voice): Taylor, if you eat ONE CRUMB of that piece of burger, you will have severe consequences. This is your final chance.

Narrator: But Taylor did not listen to his mother, rather than that, he pushed his luck and ate some of the burger.

Flora (shocked): OH NO!

Rochelle (in a firm voice): Oh dear, Flora. (her tone changes) RIGHT! Taylor, how dare you disobey me when I told you not to eat that burger! And just for punishment, this will be the unhealthy food you will have until we get back to New Zealand, and I will tell them NOT to let you join in the party; I will tell Isayu to take you to the neighbor's house.

Narrator: When he heard this, Taylor tried to spit out the bit of wedding cake he ate but Mr Carter stopped him because that was a disgusting idea. Then he showed both his mother and stepfather the remaining cake, but they still would not let Taylor join in any of his sister's birthday celebrations, because he chose to ignore his mother.

Rochelle: There's NO point spitting out that burger, you had your chance, BUT you chose to eat that burger. I am going to read you a bedtime story called 'Pinkie Pie and the Rockin' Party Palooza'

Narrator: Rochelle was reading the children a bedtime story about Pinkie Pie's family rock farm facing trouble, and Pinkie Pie's solution to save it: a "rockin' party" in Ponyville, which her family initially oppose in her Australian accent. Whilst Taylor was crying all through, rather than taking his consequence.

Rochelle (in a cross voice): TAYLOR DONOVAN PERRY, PLEASE STOP CRYING! YOUR CRIES WERE INTERRUPTING ME WHEN I WAS READING ALL OF YOU A BEDTIME STORY! YOU'RE 19, TURNING 20 ON UPPER WEDNESDAY!!

(But Taylor doesn't stop crying, he convinces his mother to give him another chance to be obedient)

Taylor (in sobs): Please Mummy, can you give me one last chance to be obedient?

Rochelle (livid): DEFINITELY NOT! YOU CHOSE TO EAT THAT BURGER DESPITE BEING TOLD, NO! WHEN SOMEONE SAYS NO, THEY MEAN NO!

Narrator: Mum said a nighttime prayer for the children, this time it was in peace because Taylor stopped crying instantly after his mother's announcement that she would think about Taylor having one last chance to be obedient. After Mum said the prayer, everyone shared the grace and both Rochelle and she gave their children a kiss. Rochelle also gave her children 50p to put in their bags for tomorrow's school Freaky Hair event.

(Rochelle and Mum give their children kisses on their cheeks before proceeding to their bedroom)

Flora (goes onto the bottom bunk of one bed): I am going to be an entire year older from tomorrow. Also, there is a double celebration at school, because tomorrow is also Freaky Hair Thursday so I have colourful extensions in my blonde hair in two colourful low plaits and pigtails so we will be celebrating both my birthday and Freaky Hair Thursday. (she tucks herself in her black duvet with stars)

Taylor (he puts on Capital on Arigbeniri's CD player and goes into Arigbeniri's bed): I can't believe my portion is reserved to healthy food. (he tucks himself in his pale blue duvet and bursts into tears again)

Arigauravi (closes the curtains): Taylor, would you please turn off Capital, I must be well rested for my GCSEs tomorrow. (Taylor does so)

Arimadura (turns off the light): Taylor, you must take consequences if you are disobedient. Even if your mum is going to reconsider it by tomorrow. (she climbs onto the top bunk of Arimadura and Arigbeniri's bunk bed and tucks herself in her pink Groovy Chick duvet)

Narrator: A quarter of an hour after, three quarters of the children were sleeping, Mr Carter came into the bedroom with some rules for them, especially crying Taylor.

(Mr Carter comes into Arimyrriah's bedroom wearing long sleeved pale blue pyjamas and a royal blue bathrobe)

Mr Carter (comes into Arimyrriah's bedroom): These are your bedtime rules children, particularly you Taylor, especially because you are turning the waterworks on deliberately so you can get out of your consequence, albeit your mother telling you that she would think about whether to give you one more chance or not. No talking, no gadgets, no singing, no shouting, no getting up (unless you want to go to the toilet of course), no whispering, no crying and most of all, no violence. Taylor and Arigauravi did you hear me? No talking, no gadgets, no singing, no shouting, no getting up (unless you want to go to the toilet of course), no whispering, no crying and most of all, no violence. (he exits the bedroom, and Taylor still sobs disturbing his Caucasian-Australian sister and the Nigerian-Indian-British children)

Arigauravi (getting a bit to quite cross): Stop crying Taylor. You are disturbing me and the neighbours from their sleep. Now stop crying, I need to be well rested for my English GCSE tomorrow. (he goes back to sleep)

Narrator: But Taylor did not stop crying. In fact, he cried his eyes out and Rochelle went into the children's room, not to tell her son to stop crying but to collect what Flora would be wearing for her birthday party.

(Rochelle, now wearing short sleeved light pink pyjamas with black stripes and a hot rose bathrobe over it comes into the children's room, goes into the Perry children's wardrobe, and collects a short-sleeved silver dress, a grey shrug, and silver tights for her daughter Flora)

Taylor (wakes up): Mummy, are you going to stop me from tasting Flora's birthday cakes at home?

Rochelle (in a firm voice): For disobeying me, YES!! (she leaves with Flora's dress, shrug, and tights)

THE END

Note: Mr Carter took a Coach to Leicester and back because The Perry Family flew to the UK on November 1st, 2024, for Flora's 19th birthday and Mr Carter wanted to have a sleepover on the same day as the Perry Family flew to the UK. The Perry Family went back to New Zealand on November 12th, 2024, and Mr Carter went back to his house which is 1 mile away from the former Adhikari maisonette on the same day. The Perry family flew to and from Birmingham Airport using Air New Zealand.
